Central . . . launching pad to the future. You stand on that launching pad now.
You, as a freshman, have just stepped up; you have several years of indoctrination and experimentation to undergo before you are launched into the future.
You, as a sophomore, are well into your training and steadily on your way. You, as a junior,
have passed the half-way mark;
you are journeying nearer your goal. You, as a senior,
have completed one phase of your flight; your high school life is completed.
There is a sadness in leaving
Central behind.
It is the same sadness
you always feel in relinquishing any part of your life to which you can never return. But this is not the end; you are about to be launched on another phase of your flight. In closing the door of the past, you hold the key to the future.

Colorful scenery, gay costumes and skillful acting all contributed to a successful fall play.

Presented on the Central stage, Oct. 26-28, this whimsical farce brought countless chuckles to both students and adults.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Caroline Rojo, cast members turned back the clock to the "Gay Nineties" period to create a carefree atmosphere and a hilarious series of tangled situations.

The play is a study of exaggerated characters. James Blickenstaff portrayed Horace Vandergelder, an elderly merchant from Yonkers who looks for adventure and finds it. Elizabeth Andersen and Robin Aronson were double-cast as Mrs. Levi, the over-energetic matchmaker who likes to arrange and rearrange people's lives and does so frequently.

Bill Abernathy as Cornelius Hackl and James Childe as Barnaby Tucker visit New York for a little excitement and soon find themselves mixed up in a zany, unbelievable plot. Peggy Bryans, Ardyce Gidley, Gary Hartman, Jeff Pomerantz and Mariana Gesman played important roles, also. Other supporting actors added to the old-time flavor of the play.

Student director John Spitzer and stage manager Nancy Herzoff were big factors in the ultimate success of this production.

"School-girls, we, eighteen and under, from scholastic trammels free."

"Even if Nanki-Poo doesn't like me, at least I have one fan."

"The Mikado"

The Central High A Cappella choir under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Howe Jensen presented the popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Mikado," December 16-17.

A chorus of smiling maidens in shimmering kimonos, dignified nobles in long, flowing robes, and colorful scenery combined to make "The Mikado" a pageant of changing color.

Richard Jordan delighted the audience with his characterization of Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner. In his proposal to Katisha the play reaches a comic height. Peggy Bryans deserves praise for her excellent portrayal of the love-blighted spinster.

Other outstanding performances in the opera were Diane Purviance's role of Yum-Yum, the heroine, and Jim Horky's portrayal of Nanki-Poo, the Mikado's son.

This was the third time this light-hearted opera has been performed on the Central stage.

In 1932 "The Mikado" was given for the first time under the direction of Mrs. Carole Pitts. Mr. Ed Clark, now an English teacher at Central, played the part of Ko-Ko in this production. Mrs. Jensen was director of the chorus and costume manager in this production of "The Mikado."

The second production of "The Mikado" was in 1951 under the guidance of Mrs. Jensen.

"The great Mikado of Japan—our logical Mikado."

"All together now—one, two, kick!"

"I beg your pardon, but what is this?"

Road Show

Color, music and diversity were the by-words of the forty-seventh annual Road Show, March 17-18. The two-act variety show was under the capable direction of Mrs. Elsie Howe Jensen and student managers Richard Jordan, Elizabeth Andersen and Judith Andersen.

The Road Show began with the traditional presentation of colors by ROTC cadets. Mr. Robert Harrison then led the orchestra in a salutation. Songs, dancing and music added to the enjoyment. Skits were presented by the Outdoorsmen, the Central High Players, and the Make-up class. The Central High Dance Band concluded the first act with selections of contemporary music.

The sparkling precision of the crack squad opened the second act. A ballet and a modern dance combined with instrumental music further proved the variety of the Road Show.

Concluding the second act was a choral climax featuring the A Cappella Choir singing selections from "The Sound of Music," and "Flower Drum Song."

Mr. Harrison leads the orchestra in "Victory at Sea."

Good-night, dear."

"Barnaby"

The spring play, "Barnaby," was presented by the senior class under the direction of Mrs. Caroline Rojo and Student Manager Robin Aronson, May 5-6.

"Barnaby" is a sophisticated fantasy by Robert and Lillian Masters, based on the comic strip of Crockett Johnson.

Richard Lydick played the role of Barnaby Baxter, a young boy who wished for a fairy godmother and instead got a pink-winged, cigar-smoking godfather, portrayed by James Childe.

Harold Forbes played the part of Mr. Baxter, and Peggy Bryans and Ardyce Gidley shared the role of Mrs. Baxter.

Other characters in the play included a friendly ghost, a talking dog and a leprechaun.

The money from the production was used to help defray senior expenses.

Centralites also presented "Barnaby" for the Junior Theater, April 26-May 3.

"When seen by the naked eye, he's a greenish, elfish-looking fellow with pointed ears and wears a silly green hat."

"John, dear! Can't you be more careful?"

A Cappella Choir

In keeping with the precedent of past years, the 1960-61 A Cappella Choir experienced a hectic but rewarding year. Under the competent direction of Mrs. Elsie Howe Jensen and the assistance of Mrs. Delma Barber, a multitude of activities allowed the choir to display its talents.

The major activity was the presentation of the opera, "The Mikado," Dec. 16-17. Musical solos with the support of a colorful chorus were blended with acting talents to produce a tremendous success. All this was accomplished despite interference from light failures and firemen. Five fire trucks were called to Central (a false alarm). Firemen insisted upon walking across the stage with all their apparatus while rehearsal was in progress. Unflustered choir members didn't drop a line or miss a note.

With little time for a breather, the choir participated in an Omaha Symphony Orchestra concert at the Civic Auditorium and a choral program at Joslyn Museum.

In January choir members were an integral part of the All-City Music Festival, singing a medley of tunes from "The Sound of Music." The success of the 1961 Road Show was due in part to the senior choir's superb interpretation of the "Flower Drum Song." The Spring Music Festival in May rounded out a well-balanced year.

As seniors sang in their last performance in the choir at graduation, they realized that they had become an important part of the long-standing A Cappella tradition.

Junior Choir, larger this year than usual, lent valuable support to the senior choir in the music festivals. Trained with eventual promotion in mind, Junior Choir members showed that the success of future choral groups is assured.

The 1960-61 year saw Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Robert Harrison and Concertmistress Terie Naviaux.

Orchestra members began their year with the overture to the fall play which included "Miserlou," "Temptation" and "Old-Timers' Waltz." Next on the schedule was "The Mikado," followed by All-City Music Festival.

Road Show numbers presented by Orchestra were "Victory at Sea," "Miserlou" and "Temptation." The Orchestra accompanied Deanne Shapiro who sang "My Hero," and Judith Andersen who sang "One Kiss."

The Orchestra added lightness to the spring play by playing the overture. The group also appeared in the Instrumental Concert and at the convention of the Association of Childhood Education International.

The commencement exercises marked the final appearance of the Orchestra.

Concert Band

Instrumental music instructor Mr. Robert Harrison has completed his first year at Central High school as director of the concert band.

Under him the group made its first appearance of the 1960-61 season during the autumn football games. Clad in white uniforms, the musicians performed on the field at half-time under the direction of Drum Major Scott Rynearson.

In January band members played for the Military Ball at Peony Park and for the All-City Music clinic which was held in the City Auditorium.

Climaxing the concert band's busy year was its performance at the Instrumental Concert, May 26.

Dance Band

Under the baton of leader Mr. Robert Harrison and Student Director Howard Chudacoff, Central's dance band for 1960-61 has completed another busy year.

The first appearance of the Eagle musicians was at Central's ROTC Sound-Off dance. At the Road Show they presented "How High the Moon," "Tudexo Junction," "Geronimo" and "September Song."

Two combos, The Sabres and The Knights, were featured in the Road Show. These combos are composed of boys who, for the most part, come from the dance band. The Sabres played "Exodus," "Rhumba Malaguene" and "'Swing Lightly," an original composition by Arnie Fellman, one of the combo's members. They also accompanied Susan "Bunny" Bloch who sang "All My Trials." Led by Tom Boeder, The Knights presented "Trinite," "Hot Toddy" and "The Brothers Go to Mother's."

The rising pitch of clicking camera-shutters and typewriters from Room 317 announced each fast-approaching deadline as journalists assembled the Register and the 1961 O-Book. Staff members could always count on a cheerful smile from Miss Margery Molden, adviser, who gave invaluable guidance.

Buddy Marcus guided the Reggie staff to 15 successful issues. In addition to the regular array of news and sports stories, features and editorials, Howard Chudacoff's nationally syndicated "Whimsey Report" gained avid readers for the paper and countless lawsuits for Howard. Special recognition is due the tireless efforts of the advertising managers and the Eagle-eyed proofreaders.

The highlight of the year was the annual Nebraska High School Press Association convention at the NU campus in Lincoln, Nov. 4-5. The Central delegation brought back the Sweepstakes Award and won numerous individual contests, consisting of skill tests and writing competition. Those receiving top places for their efforts were Buddy Marcus, editorial writing; Howard Chudacoff, sports writing; Joel Bergquist,

At the Omaha University journalism conference, Richard Friedman and Jerry Frank won third place awards in news and editorial writing, respectively.

"Organization" was the key word for the 1961 O-Book staff. A group of "beat" journalists presented an academy award-winning skit(?), "Ode to an O-Book," to auditorium home rooms. Boppin' Bonnie Tarnoff's slaves (who spent about 1600 hours preparing the 156-page annual) had many obstacles to overcome. (Example: one person in a group picture spelled his own name wrong.) O-Book department editors visited the capital city to gain helpful tips on yearbook editing, Sept. 17.

It is interesting to note that in spite of the intense pressure exerted on the staff and the short time available, this annual was published without one spelling errot.

Success was the watchword of the 1960-61 varsity debaters. Sparked by the championship team of Steve Guss and Dick Kaslow, the squad competed in 18 week-end tournaments in five states.

Coached by Miss Donna Miller, the debaters were divided into seven competitive teams whose members rose through the ranks from beginning debate training.

The oratorical whizzes garnered 23 major awards during the past season. Beginning debaters foreshadowed future success by capturing the Sweepstakes and Best Speaker Awards at the Prep Beginners' Tourney. In the Missouri Valley tournaments, a feminine squad upheld the reputation of womanhood by taking first place, while the boys received a second.

Central rhetoricians brought back the Team Excellence Award at the Fremont High School Invitational. Our traveling troupe of vocal gymnasts defeated rugged competition by capturing the Outstanding Team Award at Worthington, Minn., the Sweepstakes and Outstanding Speaker Awards at the Sioux City Central Four State Invitational and the Sweepstakes and Class A and B Debate awards at the Kearney State College Forensics.

Wins at the Missouri Valley Cross Question Open Tourney and Central and Mercy invitationals added more feathers to the Eagles' cap. The Bishop Ryan Tourney, Southeast Invitational and state meet ended the year.

In May, at the end of a victorious season, a banquet was held at which special awards were presented.

Student

Guided by President Trudy Erwin and Sponsor Mrs. Jean Skinner, the 1960-61 Student Council modified a 22-year-old system by writing and ratifying a new constitution.

Officers elected by their fellow Council members this year were Trudy Erwin, president; Steve Guss, vice-president; Janie Kennedy, recording secretary; Connie Svolopoulos, corresponding secretary; Jeff Pomerantz, treasurer; and Chris Perrin and David Adams, sergeants-at-arms. After elections in late January, six sophomores joined seven seniors and seven juniors to bring total Council membership to 20.

This year Student Council participated in two Intra-city Student Council Exchange days, Nov. 15 and Mar. 14. On these days each of the five Omaha schools sent delegates to the other schools to compare and contrast academic features.

During National Education Week in November, the Council sponsored a Faculty Coffee before school. On Dec. 22 the Second Annual Alumni Tea was held, enabling former Central students to visit with previous teachers and to renew old acquaintances.

The Central representatives cooperated with the Intra-city Student Council Safe-Driving Committee to organize an effective program to increase safety in the schools.

The Student Council is constantly endeavoring to promote school spirit by selling purple and white beanies or by organizing and presenting pep rallies.

The Nebraska Association of Student Councils convention was held in Columbus, Nebraska, Nov. 12. Trudy Erwin and David Adams were delegates. Bill Abernathy, NASC president, presided over the assembly.

In addition to its major activities, the Council aids the administration in many unnoticed ways; for example, it ushered for both College Night and Career Night this year.

National Honor Society was created 40 years ago by a former Central High principal, Joseph G. Masters. Selections are made on the basis of excellence in scholarship, leadership, service and character.

The ten highest scorers on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test took the National Honor Society General Aptitude Test, March 11. On the results of this test, Aaron Marcus and Maurice Frank were selected as two of the 350 national finalists.

Members, not to exceed 15 per cent of the senior class, are chosen in all 50 states, the Canal Zone, and American schools in South America, free China and England.

Additional members, chosen later in the year, were not elected until after the O-Book deadline.

Junior Honor Society is an honorary group whose membership is recognized for its superior academic achievement. To become a member one must earn at least six honor points both at the end of the first semester and at the mid-term of the second semester. Juniors are named to the Gamma chapter, sophomores to the Delta chapter and freshmen to the Epsilon chapter.

Central's delegates to Cornhusker Boys' and Girls' State walked off with all major awards and honors in Lincoln, June 11-18, 1960.

Both Bill Abernathy and Connie Svolopoulos were elected to the top offices of Governor by the 600 Nebraska teen-age leaders who attended.

Joel Bergquist and Susan Speier scored the highest grades in the annual governmental skills test given at this convention. Dick Kaslow was elected Supreme Court Chief Justice, and Susan and Joel, Associate Justices. Connie was chosen to attend Girls' Nation in Washington, D.C., and Jim Ecklund and Buddy Marcus participated in important administrative duties.

The seven Central delegates, as guests of the American Legion, spent a busy six days listening to numerous speakers, participating in discussions and becoming acquainted with other youths from all high-schools throughout the state.

The week was not without its more humorous aspects, however. The last night, a "free for all brawl" (all in fun) resulted in dislocated pillows, conglomerated beds and hundreds of happy teens. Everyone who attended this week of "fun with a purpose" agreed on its success.

The 1960 football team brought pride and honor to both students and faculty of Central High. For the first time since 1938, the Purple and White pigskin performers garnered an undisputed first place in Inter-city ratings.

According to both the Associated Press and United Press International, the Eagles were the Nebraska State Football Champions. The Omaha World-Herald rated Central and Creighton Prep state co-champions.

In the opening game Central demonstrated its power by out-scoring a highly rated Lincoln Central team, 29-12.

victory over North added fuel to the flames the Eagles were spreading in the Inter-city League. The second and third strings played a big part in the 54-0 slaughter over Abraham Lincoln.

The stage was set for the climax of the season. A record-breaking crowd witnessed the exhibition of high school football at its best, October 7, at Municipal Stadium.

The only two undefeated teams in the Inter-city, Central and Prep, were pitted against each other in a contest that would probably decide the state championship. It was a clash between a rampaging Central offense and a tough Prep defense.

Because of a remarkable display of defense on both teams, neither backfield had an opportunity to score. A Bluejay field goal attempt was ruled no good and a long Eagle touchdown run was called back because of a penalty. This was the story of the game—a 0-0 tie.

Although in early season predictions Tech was rated as the top team, Central bowled over the Trojans, 26-0, in the following contest.

A rough Benson team was finally subdued to the tune of 19-13, October 26.

With pressure mounting, the Eagles wrapped the Westside Warriors for a 32-9 victory in the next to the last game of the season.

Central had a little trouble in taming a pesky Lincoln Northeast squad. But when the gun sounded, ending the game and concluding the season, the scoreboard read 20-13 in favor of the Eagles.

The state championship team produced some of the finest performers in the state. Fullback Vernon Breakfield, halfback Gale Sayers and tackle Don Fiedler were named to the World-Herald's 1960 All Inter-city Football team. Fiedler and Sayers also captured All-State honors in the World-Herald poll.

The PTA held a banquet to honor the team, which added a final touch to this undefeated season.

SWIM TEAM

Coach Robert Davis' "aquanauts" turned in one of their most successful seasons in years, climaxing the campaign by finishing second in the state meet, a scant four points behind defending champion Lincoln Southeast.

In season competition the team lost only two dual meets—to Lincoln Southeast and Boys Town — and placed second in the Intercity Meet behind Creighton Prep. The Eagles gained revenge by beating Creighton Prep in a dual meet and by edging both Boys Town and Prep in the state meet.

Outstanding performers were Howard Shrier, who was undefeated in the 50-yard free style race and broke the state record in the same race; Ken Glasser, who equalled the state record in the breast stroke; John Coolidge, who lost only one race all season in the 100-yard butterfly; and Ken Lundgren, captain of the team and all-around performer in the distance races.

WRESTLING

After a two-year drought, the 1960-61 Central wrestling team began again to move upwards toward the top of the wrestling realm.

Coach Norman Sorensen's "musclenauts" did not place lower than second in any of the newly-instituted quadrangular meets and rose to fourth place in the state meet behind Bellevue, South and North.

Central wrestlers grabbed high honors in the heavier weight divisions. Top point-getter was heavyweight Jim Brown. This 235-pound junior lost only one match all season and ran away with the state heavyweight championship. Jim also won a position on the World Herald All-Intercity Team.

In the 180-pound division, junior Terry Butkus proved to be a dependable performer throughout the season. Tough and persistent, Terry reached the semi-finals of the state tourney and was also named to the World-Herald All-Intercity Team.

The only real loss the matmen suffered was a defeat at the hands of state champion Bellevue in their lone dual match of the season. Otherwise, the year was marked by five second-place finishes, a tie for first place in a quadrangular with AL, Tech and North, and a solid first place in a quadrangular with Lincoln High, North and Grand Island.

Other outstanding performers on the team and their divisions were: Dick Bottorff, 112 pounds; Chris Krush, 127 pounds; Bob Dietrich, 133 pounds and Dave Goermar, 154 pounds.

The wrestling team of 1960-61 consisted of only a few seniors; therefore, the performances of the freshmen, sophomores and juniors gave notice of a capable team for the 1961-62 season.

The Central High Roundballers rang down the curtain on another basketball season, winding up on the tenth rung in state competition.

The 1960-61 basketball season proved to be one of the most erratic in recent years. It was Central who twice stopped the on-rushing South High Packers, but who lost to Abraham Lincoln after whipping them in the first outing between the two clubs.

Coach Warren Marquiss led the Eagles to the fifth rung in Inter-city competition.

Fred Jackson garnered an All-city berth on the squad chosen by the Council Bluffs Non-Pareil and honorable mention on the World-Herald's All-city and All-state teams.

Coach Esmond Crown's 1961 tennis team was looking for an improved season over last year's mediocre campaign.

The "racketeers" began the year in better shape than last year as they sported three returning lettermen: Bruce Wintroub, Bruce Bernstein and Chuck Ginsburg.

Other members of the team included Jim Ecklund, John Zysman, Chip Jepsen, Dick Zevitz, Jim Van Houten and Jack Steinman.

BASEBALL

A crew of senior veterans filled the starting line-up of Coach Karabatsos's baseball squad.

Pitcher Jeff Wohlner was the foundation of the team's mound staff, while Duane Mannon backed him up with the catching duties.

Coach Frank Smagacz

Coach Frank Smagacz gathered 14 returning lettermen from whom he molded a championship track team.

Gale Sayers, who broad jumped, high jumped, ran the high and low hurdles and 880 relay, was an outstanding performer for the track squad.

John Jepsen, Vernon Breakfield, Steve Guss, Terry Williams and Pete Tomanio were other track stand-outs during the season.

The track team opened its season with a victory at the Omaha University Invitational. First place in the Columbus meet fell to the Eagles as they set a roaring pace in track competition.

The Central High O-Club, founded in 1920 by Frank Knapple, played an active role in Hilltop events during the 1960-61 year.

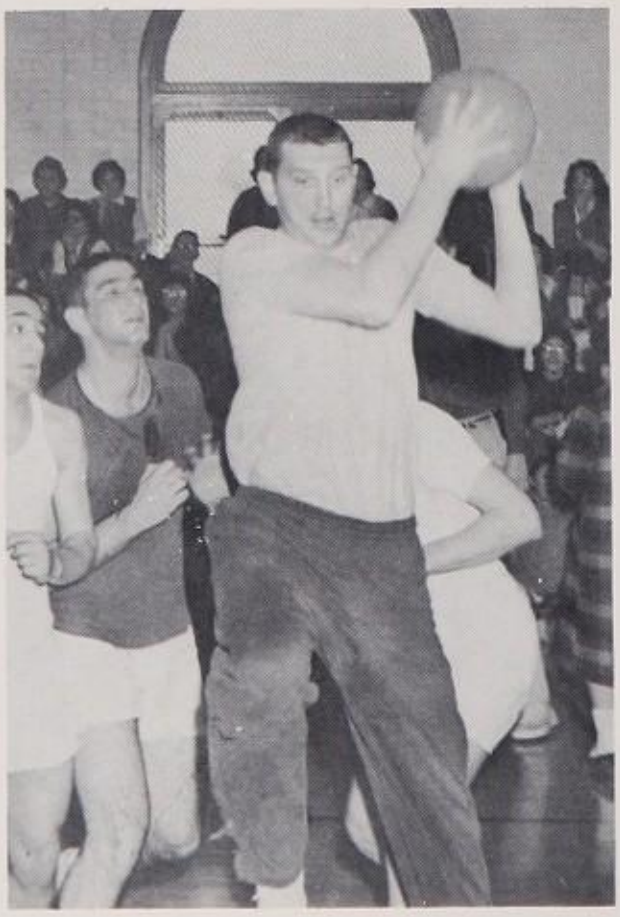
Under the able guidance of Sponsor Frank Smagacz and Presidents Jim Capellupo and John Jepsen, the O-Club was one of the big promoters of school spirit at Central.

An old tradition of a basketball game between male faculty members and the O-Club was revived. Surprisingly, the teachers walloped the O-Club in front of a packed Central gym.

With the money collected from tickets at this game, the lettermen went out to dinner and attended a local sporting event.

The O-Club and the Girls' Athletic Association joined to sponsor the O-Ball at Peony Park in late spring.

The Frank Knapple Trophy for sportsmanship, the Mancuso Trophy for the outstanding wrestler and the Pop Schmidt Award for track stars were presented to outstanding athletes. The evening was climaxed by the cowning of the King and Queen of Sports.



"Aw, please, Mr. Davis."

New purple uniforms distinguished Pep Squad members when they assembled to cheer the teams to victory. Whether Central won or lost, the players met enthusiastic support from over 200 girls who backed them from the stands.

Pep Squad also attended the pep rallies presented by the varsity cheerleaders. They were held frequently during the football and basketball seasons. Such secret personalities as JoJo FreGaDa were presented. This anonymous character turned out to be the members of the varsity basketball team.

To earn a chevron at the end of the year, a member may not miss more than three games. A gold star is awarded to those who attend all games.

Pep Squad's large membership indicates that it is a popular organization at Central.

GAA is an organization which offers many athletic activities to Central girls.

Members participating in at least four after-school sports such as volleyball, bowling, badminton, table tennis or softball may earn an award at the end of the year. In addition, training rules must be kept 16 weeks.

When a freshman completes her nine activity units, she earns a letter; a sophomore receives a "C," a junior an "O" and a senior a star.

Highlight of the year for GAA members is the O-Ball. Presented with the O-Club in June, the dance features the crowning of the King and Queen of Sports.

In October, 21 fourth year Latin students in traditional Roman dress met to form the newest of Central's clubs. Junior Classical League is a national organization with the aim of stimulating interest in the culture of ancient Greece and Rome.

The Central High chapter of JCL has adopted the name "Coniurati," which means "The Conspirators." The name refers to a plot to overthrow lack of cultural knowledge. The members have successfully approached this goal by presenting several programs at Latin club meetings and by issuing a newspaper.

An expectant hush fell upon the gathered multitude of eager spectators. Suddenly the runner came into view. The Oylmpic games were under way.

No, this was not Rome. It was Central High. The Olympic games were just a part of a diversified lineup of programs for the year. Others included a Latin play, numerous reports on Roman life and a Saturnalia party.

The Latin club moved ahead to new accomplishments this year. Membership rose to over 160. In spite of its large number, the club was able to allow everyone to participate in activities.

One of the Latin club's biggest undertakings this year was the traditional Roman banquet. Preceding the banquet was a slave auction. Freshmen were sold to upperclassmen for a day's servitude. At the banquet, costumes of the Roman Empire were worn by everyone. The students paraded about the room while judges selected the best costumes.

Helping to make the Latin club a better organization were advisers Miss Ruth Pilling, Mrs. Dorothy Conlan, Miss Fern McVicker and Miss Rina Bavaresco.

Months of preparation by Math club members terminated with two contests held this spring. Seventy-six students participated in the club's intramural math test. Michael McKeown, Tony Bradford, Helene Ruback and Maris Vinovskis were winners of this year's awards.

Math team members, although ineligible for the intramural contest, participated in the twelfth annual Mathematics Contest, March 9. Central's team of Mark Brodkey, Jerry Frank and Doug Josephson walked away with top state honors.

Sponsored by the head of the mathematics department, Mr. Duane Perry, the club was organized in 1955. Before this time the club was a part of the Science club.

The main purpose of Safe Teens is to promote safe and courteous driving among teen-agers. Toward this goal, the officers of the club worked to instruct each member that everyone assumes responsibilities and obligations when he operates an automobile.

As part of its safe-driving campaign, the organization this year issued bumper stickers to all members.

For those on the launching pad to learning, this year's Library club was both a challenge and an interesting adventure.

Library club members busied themselves by putting away books, straightening shelves, checking out books to students, and helping them find books on shelves. At the end of each library period members checked to see that all books had been stamped.

Affiliated with the Intra-City Library Council, the Library club sends delegates to help plan and carry out the annual pocket book sale. The paper-bound book sale was held this year in March.

Exploration of art mediums and art vocations is the main goal of the Greenwich Villagers. To reach this goal, this year's club participated in field trips to Don Beardsley's Art Studio, Hutcheson's Studio and the Industrial Art Show at Joslyn. The members also experimented with the monotype technique and made an "Egg Tree" for the Easter holidays. Another project, a first for the club this year, was an all-student art exhibit held in the art room in the spring.

Y-Teen members this year reaped many benefits by joining their hands, their minds and their time in helping others. The club's activities were geared to projects to aid the community, as well as to improve each individual in her relationship to God, to others and to herself.

Y-Teens and Hi-Y jointly sponsored the Lenten services for Central students and faculty. Also included in the club's program for this year were dressing dolls for underprivileged children of our area and selling Central pencils.

Besides being a sevice organization, Y-Teens also functions as a social group. Not only does the intra-city council plan regular parties, but the Central Y-Teens also hold a spring tea for club members and teachers.

For prospective nurses, Future Nurses of America provided an ideal launching pad. The girls received atomic fuel for their ship of tomorrow by obtaining knowledge and information about their chosen profession.

This first-hand knowledge was gained from speakers representing various fields of medicine and by visits to hospitals, schools of nursing and children's homes. Voluntary work for Indian missions and Christmas caroling at old people's homes rounded out the girls' service-training program.

Mrs. Marie Dwyer, school nurse, started the Cental High chapter of Future Nurses of America in 1956. All upperclass boys and girls are eligible for membership.

This year's meetings included a trip to Anthis Beauty School, a lecture on Japan by a Central student and a Christmas program.

This year saw Central's branch of the National Forensic League deemed the outstanding public school chapter in the state. This laurel was earned through participation in more than twenty competitive events in all areas of debate. The League played host to fifteen debate teams at the Marion Mortenson Invitational Forensic Meet, Feb. 10-11.

The club, as one of 900 chapters of the National Forensic League, shares the history and goals of the national league. The NFL was founded in 1925 for the advancement of the school and individual in the forensic arts.

Central's Cadet Regiment, which trains students in leadership, military discipline and respect for authority, was organized in 1893. At first a battalion of four companies was trained by an officer from Fort Crook. He was later assisted by commissioned and non-commissioned officers.

The War Department reorganized the cadets into an ROTC regiment in 1937. Four years later this regiment became a battalion consisting of four regular companies and one freshman company. The school has since been reorganized into a battle group with seven companies including the band company.

In 1939 the Cadet Officers' Club replaced the Senior Cadet Club, which had been organized in 1895. The Cadet Non-Commissioned Officers' Club also was reorganized that year.

This year a new position was initiated. One ROTC cadet from the city high school system was selected ROTC Cadet Corps Commander.

The Regiment's outstanding activity this year was the Military Ball, Feb. 24. Cadet Harry Convery Henderson III was named cadet colonel and commander of the battle group. Judith Eichhorn was chosen by the senior cadets to serve as honorary colonel.

The King's Hussars, clad in dashing red and green uniforms, and the Queen's Hussars, in flashy white attire, entertained the subjects of the King and Queen of Quivera at the 66th Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation and Ball. The Hussars were commanded by cadet Richard Steele and cadet James Cowman, respectively.

Traditionally, 16 Central High senior cadets are chosen on the basis of marching precision and uniformity of height. The maneuvers are very difficult to perform, not only because they are faster and more intricate than regular army drill, but also because no commands may be given during the performance.

Two juniors train with the seniors and maintain a knowledge of the group's affairs for next year.

The major purposes of the Commissioned Officers' Club are to centralize the co-operation of the cadets in all matters concerning the regulation of the Battle Group, and to plan the Military Ball.

Committees selected from the COC, under the leadership of Club President Richard Steele,were responsible for carrying out the decoration, seating, invitation, flower and various other arrangements for the Military Ball. A vote of this year's COC selected Judy Eichhorn Colonel's Lady.

These include such activities as the city-wide ROTC Review, in which all the ROTC departments of Omaha are represented, and Central's Retreat or year-end review.

The Military Band also joined with the civilian marching band to provide music at the Military Ball and during half-time ceremonies at Eagle football games.

Aside from musical activities, the Band Company has always been rated outstanding in marching proficiency, as well as being among the top companies in the Best Company competition.

CP's are on duty at all Central ROTC functions and at all Central football and basketball games. It is their job to keep order and to prevent anyone from getting injured in the crowd.

ADMINISTRATION

J. ARTHUR NELSON

Piloting Central High school's missile of knowledge is Principal J. Arthur Nelson. This capable individual has manned the controls for sixteen prosperous years.

Mr. Nelson's sincere interest in the students—their activities and plans—and his ready support have kept him close to the student body. He has spent countless hours mapping out a program of steady progress and development in his endeavor for Central to maintain its rank as an excellent institution of learning.

Mr. Nelson received his Bachelor's Degree from Midland College and his Master's Degree from the University of Nebraska. After serving as principal of Monroe School and as assistant principal of North High, he became Central's chief administrator sixteen years ago.

Mr. J. Arthur Nelson has led his crew members well, led them on a safe course into the future.

JOHN E. ARONSON

Mr. Nelson's able co-pilot is John E. Aronson, who is successfully finishing his first year at the controls of Central High school.

Mr. Aronson has proven himself to be more than capable as an assistant principal. He has accepted well his administrative tasks and responsibilities and has carried them out efficiently. He is always willing and happy to discuss a problem with a member of the student body.

Mr. Aronson attended the University of Nebraska where he received his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees. He was the assistant principal of Benson High school for ten years. Prior to that time he was principal in Wahoo and Albion.

Having undertaken well his task as co-pilot of the missile of knowledge, Assistant Principal John E. Aronson is a most welcome addition to the Central administration.

Central—launching pad to the future. Faculty members—groundworkers on the launching pad.

Leading the students of Omaha Central High school forward into the future—forward to prosperous and wholesome lives — are the seventy-three members of the 1960-1961 faculty.

These men and women are the indispensable groundworkers of the launching pad. Without them the missile of knowledge could never leave the earth. They chart its course and provide an abundant supply of fuel. They carefully make all necessary preparations for a well-planned take-off and a smooth and rewarding landing.

Directing the growth of Central High school, formulating its policies, and carrying out its daily operations require the loyalty, devotion, and foresight of many individuals. Every member of the faculty bears these qualities. Each one directs his efforts toward these aims.

The student body is proud of its instructors, its leaders.

Dick Zacharia

The senior officers were announced, Nov. 4, 1960. Six people had been chosen from the forty-one who had originally filed in early October.

The class of '61 was led by Dick Zacharia. He supervised and organized senior activities and presided at part of the graduation ceremony.

Maris Vinovskis was Dick's Vice President and able assistant. Maris took complete charge of all senior committees. He attended all committee meetings and saw to it that everything was running smoothly.

Class Secretary Olive Graham had charge of all class correspondence. She notified seniors about meetings and other matters. She assisted the treasurer with financial records and helped Miss Cecil McCarter, senior sponsor.

Treasurer Jeff Wohlner kept records of all financial transactions, including the play and caps and gowns. Jeff spent much time seeing that the seniors paid the various fees "on time."

Duane Mannon and Judy Eichhorn served as Sgts.-at-Arms. These two officers were the ones who did the organizing for the class. They performed various duties for Miss McCarter and the other officers. They helped prepare for the issuance of caps and gowns and class rings.

These officers all worked hard for a good senior year for their classmates.

Senior Activities

Under the direction of Miss Cecil McCarter, senior sponsor, senior committees for the class of '61 were organized last December. These committees arranged and supervised senior events leading to commencement.

The Spring Play committee supervised ticket sales and publicity for the annual production. The members of the Cap and Gown committee measured every senior and ordered the graduation robes. Plans for the final banquet and dance came under the direction of the Dance, Banquet Arrangements, Banquet Table and Banquet Program committees. The Commencement committee made preparations for the graduation exercises.

These seven senior committees were led by chairmen who were chosen from the finalists of the senior class elections. All members worked hard to make the climax of their four years at Central exciting.
